Faculty of Psychology, Tarumanagara University

Introduction

- Prosocial behavior is an important behavior to develop during adolescent phase. According to Hoffman (1982), cognitive development is influential in helping to improve adolescent prosocial behavior.
- However, the actual condition are contradictory to the theories. Several research has showed the decrease in adolescent prosocial behavior (Sutomo et al., 2022; Toharudin et al., 2024). Moreover, a study by Shubhan and Aloysius (2017) showed among all provinces in Indonesia, Bangka Belitung and DKI Jakarta has the lowest percentage of prosocial behavior.
- Therefore, there is a need to improve prosocial behavior in adolescent. Parental attachment was found to be positively and significantly related to adolescent prosocial behavior (Lie et al., 2024)

Research Question

Is there a role of parental attachment on adolescent prosocial behavior in Bangka Belitung and DKI Jakarta?

Literature Review

Prosocial Behavior

- Prosocial behavior is a voluntary action taken with the aim of benefiting others.
- There are several factors influencing prosocial behavior, such as: (1) self-gain, (2) personal values and norms, and (3) empathy (Dayaksini & Hudainah, 2006).
- Factors inhibiting prosocial behavior including social exclusion, emotional numbness, and social closeness

Parental Attachment

- Attachment is the behavior of fostering emotionally close relationships with individuals (Bowlby in Gross et al., 2017).
- Types of attachment: secure attachment & insecure attachment (avoidant, resistant, disorganized)
- Positive impact of attachment: increased prosocial behavior, reduced aggression or deviant behavior (Nie et al., 2016), higher well-being, and life satisfaction (Spence et al., 2022).
- Negative impact of insecure attachment: impaired social skills, relationship problems (Allen et al in Gullone et al., 2008), and high risk of engaging in antisocial behavior (Arbona & Power in Gullone et al., 2008).

Previous Research

- Self-control mediates the associations between parental attachment and prosocial behavior among Chinese adolescents (2016)
- The multifaceted nature of prosocial behavior in children: Links with attachment theory and research (2017)
- The Impact of Adolescents' Attachment to Peers and Parents on Aggressive and Prosocial Behavior: A Short-Term Longitudinal Study (2020)
- The association between parent–child attachment and prosocial behavior: A longitudinal study (2023)

Research Gap

Limited research has addressed the role of parental attachment on prosocial behavior. Therefore, the researcher intends to examine the specific role (causal relationship) between the two variables specifically in Bangka Belitung and DKI Jakarta.
